Whence Comes Electricity? At a time when electricity is rapidly transforming the face of the globe, when it has already in great measure annihilated distance and bids fair to abolish darkness for us, it is curious to notice how completely ignorant "the plain man" remains as to the later de velopments of electrical theory. Some recent correspondence has led me to think that a vague notion that electric ity is a fluid which in some mysterious way flows through a telegraph wire like water through a pipe is about as far as he has got, and if we add to this some knowledge of what he calls "electric shocks" we should probably exhaust his ideas on the subject. Yet this is not to be wondered at. Even the most instructed physicists can do nothing but guess as to what electric ity is, and the only point on which they agree is as to what it is not. There is, in fact, a perfect consensus of opinion among scientific writers that it is not a fluid-i. e., a continuous stream of ponderable matter, as is a liquid or a gas-and that it is not a form of energy, as is heat. Outside this limit the scientific imagination is at liberty to roam where it listeth, and, although it has used this liberty to a considerable extent, no definite result has followed up to the present time .-Academy.

Licking Her Stamps.
We find the following anecdotes in a Naples paper: "At the postoffice yes-terday, amid the large crowd gathered around the window, was a young English lady, handsome, well dressed and accompanied by her maid. The young lady had just purchased some stamps and was about to affix them to a num ber of letters which she held in her hand. Delicately tearing off a stamp, she said to her maid, 'Pull (sle) out your tongue.' And the maid, with English impassivity, thrust forth her tongue, while the mistress passed over it a postage stamp, which she subse quently stuck on a letter. She went through the entire package of letters, and for each one the obedient waiting maid thrust out her tongue for the mistress to moisten the stamp. Curious manners these English people

The Canon and the Lawyer.

The point of the following story lies in the important part which the "threepenny bit" plays in church collections in England. Canon Blank was having a friendly game of pool at the squire's, and one of his opponents was Wigsby, the barrister. The canon lost a "life" and took from his pocket a threepenny piece to pay for it, which he placed on the edge of the table.
"Ch," said Wigsby, "I see, canon you have had your finger in the plate!"

The canon drew himself up to his full height, a good six feet, and, looking the man of the law full in the face said, "I'm surprised that you, Mr. Wigsby, in the presence of this respectable company, have the audacity to recognize your own paltry contribu-

Lamps That Talk.

Electric lamps not only can be made to talk, but also to sing. An ordinary are light can be made to produce sounds in two ways. One is by placing the arc in the circuit of a telephone instead of the ordinary receiver, and the other is by placing it in the circuit instead of the ordinary transmitter.

In either of these positions it will pronounce words, which can be heard distinctly at a considerable distance. Je maturally follows, also, that the electric arc can be utilized as the receiver and also as the transmitter of a tele-

The French Horn.

The French horn or cor de chasse is regarded by some musicians as the sweetest and mellowest of all the wind instruments. In Beethoven's time it was little else than the old hunting horn, which, for the convenience of the mounted hunter, was arranged in spiral convolutions, to be slipped over the head and carried resting on one shoulder and under the opposite arm. The Germans still call it the waldhornthat is, "forest born."

To rehearse a play on Sunday is a sure sign that that play will not be a success for the manager ordering the rehearsal and that salaries will be lost by all who so participate on the Lord's day. To twirl a chair at rehearsals is just as good as betting on a sure thing that a fight will disrupt the friendship of at least two members and perhaps cause loss to the management for that week.

MEDICINAL.

More Harmful Than Alcohol

Overeating Worst Form of Intemperance.

If your food is undigested, you are underfed, no matter how much you eat. And the underfeed man is, to the extent of the underfeeding, crippled for the battle of life. On the other hand, there is such a thing as overeating. The harm done by indigestion caused by overloaded stomachs exceeds that from the increased heart beats caused by the use of alcohol or whiskey.

Eat as much good food as you need but don't overload the stomach. If your stomach is weak it may refuse to ilgest what you cat. Then you ought to use a good digestant like Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which digests what you sat without the stomach's aid. This rest and the wholesome tonics contained in Kodol Dyspepsia Cure soon restore health. You don't have to diet. Don't cat too much. That's harmful. But eat enough and of sufficient variety. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will digest it. It quickly relieves the sensation of fulness and bloating from which some people suffer after meals. It prevents belching and absolutely cures indigestion and other stomach troubles. Equally good for children.

Lemus James, Marysville, O., esys: "I suffered from dyspepsia for thirty years but a lew bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure commend it to disufferers from this disease."

Wasn't His Hat, Anyway.

Mr. Weddle, visiting his wife's relatives up in Maine, fairly had to go to church that Sunday. He didn't want to go, but his wife thought it would do him good and would be apt to preserve the harmony of the family.

The sermon was long and powder dry, and Weddle stole off into the arms of Morpheus gently and serenely. As he did not snore, his wife did not suspect that he had gone to sleep alongside of her and gave herself up fully to inspecting the bannet of the woman in the pew in front.

woman in the pew in front.

Like all things, is od and bad, the sermon came to an end at last, but Weddle slumbered on like a baby even after a deacon began taking up the collection in a hat. When the derby was passed to Weddle, Mrs. Weddle was surprised to see that he did not respond. She nudged him violently to bring him back to his senses, and Weddle, awakening with a start, sat up right and, bewildered, gazed at the hat in the hand of the deacon. Then he shook his head sleepily and said: "No; that isn't mine. Mine is a gray one."—New York Tribune.

"Well, ain't that a lovely customer? I just dote on waiting on that kind. Did you see her, though?" The shop girl was bubbling over with rage. A woman and her daughter had looked at not fewer than twenty-five silk waists. At last they took up one, and the woman brought forth a tape measure. "I think we might get it out of three and a half yards or three and two-thirds anyhow. Just wait—twenty-three inches down the front, three-quarters for the sleeves, allow a quarter for collar and cuffs. Yes, that'll do it." As she talked she ran the tape over the waist, the clerk standing by almost bursting with indignation. "Three yards of lace, one and a quarter of insertion," she went on, measuring the trimming. "Put that down, Amy. Now let's go. We can get up a walst exactly like that for $7.50, and they ask $14.08. They've got their nerve haven't they?"-New York Press.

From the Theater Gallery.

Mr. W. Pett Ridge tells in the English Illustrated that the best reparted he ever encountered was in the gal lery of a theater. An extremely stout good tempered woman contrived to wedge herself into a space that would have accommodated a person of ordi nary size, to the unconcealed annoy ance of a smartly dressed youth next to her. She began to peel an orange, and the youth, with a gesture of complaint, removed his silk hat fussily to a safer position.

"I suppose," said the good tempered "that you'd rather have had a gentleman sitting by the side of you sir, wouldn't you?"

The youth replied snappishly in the affirmative. "Ah," said the woman thoughtfully,

"so would I!"

Presence of Mind. During a performance at one of the London theaters a man and his wife had to quarrel on the stage, the wom an in a rage of jealousy, the man try ing to persuade her that she was too suspicious and too passionate. Both were acting with great spirit when the wife moved her arm too near the candle, and her muslin dress was in flames in an instant. Both actors kept their heads, however. The husband extinguished the fire and, proceeding with his part, interpolated:

"You see, my dear, I was right. You are ready to flare up at the least thing."

Not Left Out.

An English paper tells a story of some children's theatricals. A party of children were giving a little drama of their own, in which courtships and weddings played a leading part in the plot. While the play was in progress one of the grownups went behind the scenes and found a very small girl sitting in the corner.

"Why are you left out?" he asked. "Aren't you playing too?"
"Oh, I's not left out," came the reply "I's the baby waiting to be borned."
